

WOODSTOCK, VIRGINIA.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1905.

A Burning Boy Rolled in Snow. Hugh, the four year old son of Jas. Stillwell, of Stanley, Va. was so badly burned a day or two ago that he died. Mrs. Stillwell was absent from home at the time, but it is thought that th child's dress caught fire while he was drying his feet by the fireplace. His little sister heard him scream and rushing in from an adjoining room found the little fellow at the door trying with his hands to brush down the fire. She opened the door and Hugh ran out. Some passers by rolled him in the snow and extinguished the fire.
